

VERBS: The Gerund

Which form is correct here, the gerund or "to + infinitive"? Cross out the wrong form.
(Welche Form ist hier die Richtige, das Gerundium oder „to + Infinitiv“? Streiche die falsche Form durch!)

1. He clearly remembers walking / to walk past a strange car on his way home that night.
2. Please remember emptying / to empty the rubbish bin today.
3. Sometimes you just can't avoid making / to make mistakes.
4. I can't imagine climbing / to climb Mount Everest!
5. We should consider changing / to change the plans.
6. She tends sleeping / to sleep late at the weekends.
7. Stop pretending being / to be asleep, I know you're awake!
8. It's not worth waiting / to wait. She won't show up now.

SOLUTION

1. He clearly remembers walking / to walk past a strange car on his way home that night.
2. Please remember emptying / to empty the rubbish bin today.
3. Sometimes you just can't avoid making / to make mistakes.
4. I can't imagine climbing / to climb Mount Everest!
5. We should consider changing / to change the plans.
6. She tends sleeping / to sleep late at the weekends.
7. Stop pretending being / to be asleep, I know you're awake!
8. It's not worth waiting / to wait. She won't show up now.